perused the reports of the
which Mr. Burlingame

the streets laid upon the unthought and unexpected manner in which the appointment of representative fell to Mr. Burlingame. According to one version only ten days consideration were taken by Mr. Burlingame to decide whether he should accept the "flattering offer so unexpectedly made to him." It was thought a joke. The foreign Ministers were consulted; and, though much astonished, gave a cordial assent, etc., etc. And now after this touching picture of the spontaneous desire to have a Christian representative on the part of the Chinese authorities, a friendly (?) writer thus describes the course of events. We take the liberty of italicizing a few sentences:

"There were no Chinese statesmen to be found who, in addition to other essential requisites for so high a post, possessed sufficient knowledge of the languages and the ideas of Christendom to be able to enter into intelligent conversation with governments so many and so varied as those of Great Britain, the United States, France, and Russia, to say nothing of smaller, but still important powers. Under these circumstances, Prince Kung brought himself that one of the Christian ambassadors who had resided long enough in China to become familiar with the character and traditions of the people and the wishes of the Government, might be induced to accept a mission from China to Christendom. The first person he thought of in this capacity was Mr. Burlingame, a statesman who, he rightly conceived, would be agreeable to the people and Government of the United States, and not welcome to those of Great Britain and France. The late Sir Frederick Bruce, the British Minister to China, who had cordially acted with Mr. Burlingame in all matters during their joint residence in Peking, was cognizant of the proposed arrangement, and is understood to have given it his hearty support. After due consideration, Mr. Burlingame accepted the mission."

If, as we have now reason to believe, the assertion that Sir Frederick Bruce knew of the arrangement is correct, there is something very wonderful in the secrecy preserved as regards the candidate for the post. Frankly, we do not believe that any such arrangement could have been decided upon for three years without his having either knowledge or suspicion that such was the case. "Officially" we do not of course doubt that Mr. Burlingame spoke the truth; but his words implied, and were intended to imply, that he knew nothing, even privately, of the good fortune in store for him.

This aside however, the mission is an accomplished fact and must be dealt with as such. Our own estimate of its head is that he has been partly tempted by the galaxy and dazzled by the unique position offered him, and is partly a self-deceived enthusiast who has brought himself to believe that China is really anxious for progress. We shall not be surprised to learn that no one has been more wounded, more astonished and more offended, at Sir R. Alcock's despatch upon Dr. MacGowan's telegraphic scheme than Mr. Burlingame: and our belief is strengthened by the reports which reach us of the disapproval entertained of the course he has pursued by Mr. Hart, the Inspector General of Customs. Once he is relieved of the suspicion heretofore entertained that he was but playing into the hands of more astute but less sanguine diplomats than himself, he is really to a great extent self-deceived. He has at least done his best to carry out the main part of his instructions in pursuing the European Governments that their future policy with China must be governed by the principle of "give and take on both sides." If he is unable to guarantee that China will not "take all and give" nothing, the fault may lie with the clever but unscrupulous people who sent him forth, and who had no suspicion that he was, after all, so honest minded.

A NEW ZEALAND PATRIOT.
COLONEL Whitmore is the commander of the colonial forces in New Zealand engaged in the war with the "rebels" natives. The chief "rebel" is one Tito Kowaru, and he has sent to Col. Whitmore the following letter, dated December 5, 1868:—

Tito says:—"This is a piece of earnest and sound advice for Whitmore. Salutations to you. This is to ask you whom does England belong to, and to whom belongs the land or country you are now standing upon? I will tell you; the heavens and the earth were made at one time. In one day was man created, and all productions of any kind that are in the world; and if you think or are aware that God created all, it is well; we are equal theron. You were formed a European; and England was named as your country. We are Maoris, in New Zealand. Behind you—there has been placed between you and me a great barrier—an ocean. Why did you not consider, or take thought, before you crossed over here? I did not go from here over to you. Stand away from my place to your own country in the middle of the ocean; go away from the town to some other place. Arise, and be baptised, and let your sins be washed away. Calling upon the name of the Lord. Sufficient. From Tito Kowaru."

All this is very heroic, and assimilates Tito to the glorious band of patriots, of ancient and modern times, of whom Garibaldi is perhaps the best modern type. "Stand away from my place to your own country," says Tito, and how many of the heroes of history have said the same things. Tito adds some excellent Christian advice: "Arise, and be baptised, and let your sins be washed away. Calling upon the name of the Lord. Sufficient." All this would be very inspiring, and might impress one with a feeling of pity and admiration for this child of nature, but for what we find about his particular nature in the Wellington Evening Post, which says—

"Information of a credible nature has reached the Government that the cannibal Tito Kowaru, exceeding in villainy anything ever heard in New Zealand, since the very first days of its colonization, has forwarded to the inland tribes of this island, some poached meat, made of the flesh of our poor fellow countrymen who fell in the late disaster at the Front. The purport of this horrible practice, it is scarcely necessary to remark, is to inflame the ferocity of the natives of the interior, from whom this scoundrel expects assistance. Some small legs of this horrible food have found their way, it was stated, to the Waikato district, and had been seen among the tribes located near Lake Taupo."

Now here is a problem for Darwin. In one man is found—we really believe the conjunction possible in a New Zealander—a Patriot of a high order, a Christian (judging from his language) of correct views, and a ferocious Cannibal.

LOCAL.

A cargo of coolies from Macao has been prevented by negroes from landing at Santiago, in Cuba. The authority from which we derive this information does not mention the name of the ship in which the coolies were conveyed.

We are indebted to the courtesy of a resident friend for the following account, dated 4th April, of the loss of the North German schooner Der West.—The Der West, bound from Hongkong and Yokohama, caught fire not far from Swatow. The Captain, tried to run for that port, but was eventually obliged to run her ashore outside near Squat Point or Bill Island. The crew reached Swatow in safety, and a gun-boat, with the Captain on board, immediately proceeded to the wreck to try and save whatever was possible. Mr. Dickens, the Prussian Consul, also accompanied him. She had no pilot on board when she was run ashore. A subsequent note says that the hull which was lying with decks awash was to be sold by auction yesterday. She has a quantity of arms on board and the Customs will look sharp after the divars.

A TALE of a new species of drugging and subsequent robbery was reported at the Police Station yesterday. It appears that a respectable Chinaman was on his way yesterday from Canton to this port on board the river steamer, when a fellow-countryman endeavored to make up with him by offering him a cigar. After two words had been smoked, the smoker collapsed into a deep sleep, from which he did not awake until he found that the steamer had arrived, the police stranger had disappeared, and his baggage and money (some two or three hundred dollars) had gone also with "that opportunity." Polite stranger has not been heard of since; and there is little doubt but the cigars had been drugged with opium.

A Boston paper says a Boston boy, twenty-one years of age—Paul West—has, within a year, purchased, at Calcutta, two cargoes of merchandise; at Rangoon two cargoes; and in China two cargoes of tea, and shipped them to Boston, without the aid of any resident merchants. Do-any of our own Chaa-szees know this brilliant go-ahead youth? What a brotha of a boy he must be if what the Boston paper says is true. What a model man of business!

The San Francisco Times energetically denounces the introduction into that city of Chinese women under the contract system. It says:—"Slavery exists in our midst; slavery of the vilest form. The name which belongs to its chief characteristic is uttered by the press with reluctance, while a full description of the atrocities of the servants is utterly precluded from the columns of a respectable journal. There is a demand, natural and emphatic, rising in voice in this community for the extirpation of this evil. But it is contended by many that existing laws are insufficient for the necessary work of reform. If there is no law to forbid this internal traffic, if it is not possible to devise a quarantine ordinance that will stay these female coolie importations, our citizens may at least make a successful protest against the perversity of duty to which we refer. But we are far from believing that the statutes now in force might not be invoked for the suppression of this infamous business. At least, it is certain that no thoroughly vigorous efforts have yet been made to try the virtue of such provisions of law as seem to afford a possible remedy."

An unemployed Tungkoo coolie was charged with assault. Complainant, another Tungkoo, villager, stated that his village people were at war with the village people of complainant; and, having met him in Syingpoo, he immediately attacked complainant with a bamboo. Wong-kun-poo head district-watchman, stated that he was an untrained constable who had been appointed by the police to make up with the village people of complainant; and, having met him in Syingpoo, he immediately attacked complainant with a bamboo. Wong-kun-poo head district-watchman, stated that he was an untrained constable who had been appointed by the police to make up with the village people of complainant; and, having met him in Syingpoo, he immediately attacked complainant with a bamboo.

A hawk from Sowkwan, was charged with the robbery of an umbrella and a jacket at Sowkwan. It appears that nearly the whole village were turned out in pursuit of the thief; and he was caught after having leapt a wall. As it was shown that this so-called hawk had been in Gaol before for six months for a similar offense, Mr. Russell sent the rascal to hard labor for six months, with orders to provide security for $100 for a term of twelve months, and to be deported thereafter if H. E. the Governor should see fit.

Hoong Asua, a tailor, was convicted by Mr. M.-y. of having endeavored to pass a counterfeit dollar at the Leong Yik pawnbroker shop in Wellington Street. It seems that prisoner and another man went into the said pawnshop to pledge an umbrella, for which prisoner got $1 and some small silver. Prisoner's companion then was seen to hand something to prisoner and disappear from the scene; upon which prisoner asked the pawnbroker to exchange the dollar which had been given him. This dollar was found to be a counterfeit; and the pawnbroker and his accomplice both swore that the shop stamp was on the dollar given to the prisoner.—Mr. May said he was sorry to see that a respectable-looking man had been so led away as to attempt thus to defraud the pawnbroker. He would send him to hard labor for four months, after which the prisoner would have to find security for six months in the sum of $25.

Tito says:—"This is a piece of earnest and sound advice for Whitmore. Salutations to you. This is to ask you whom does England belong to, and to whom belongs the land or country you are now standing upon? I will tell you; the heavens and the earth were made at one time. In one day was man created, and all productions of any kind that are in the world; and if you think or are aware that God created all, it is well; we are equal theron. You were formed a European; and England was named as your country. We are Maoris, in New Zealand. Behind you—there has been placed between you and me a great barrier—an ocean. Why did you not consider, or take thought, before you crossed over here? I did not go from here over to you. Stand away from my place to your own country in the middle of the ocean; go away from the town to some other place. Arise, and be baptised, and let your sins be washed away. Calling upon the name of the Lord. Sufficient. From Tito Kowaru."

All this is very heroic, and assimilates Tito to the glorious band of patriots, of ancient and modern times, of whom Garibaldi is perhaps the best modern type. "Stand away from my place to your own country," says Tito, and how many of the heroes of history have said the same things. Tito adds some excellent Christian advice: "Arise, and be baptised, and let your sins be washed away. Calling upon the name of the Lord. Sufficient."
